Tour to Follow Week Behind Original Plans

Days of Uncertainty Ended
By Official Announcement

OTTAWA, Sept. 27 (CP)—The Royal tour will start at Quebec City Tuesday, Oct. 9, one week later than originally planned, it was announced today in a statement that ended days of confusion and doubt that it would take place at all this year.

Victim Dies; Man Sought In Murder

An RCMP. dragnet has been thrown out on Vancouver Island for Albert Fairweather, who is charged with murder.

Original charge of wounding with intent to maim against the Port Alberni logger was changed to the more serious charge last night following the death of Raymond Boyce yesterday afternoon in King's Daughters' Hospital, Duncan.

Boyce died from a six-inch knife wound alleged to have been inflicted in a fight in the back of a truck near Duncan Sept. 19.

Fairweather has been sought since.

MAY BE DANGEROUS

Police say the man may be dangerous and that if he is the one involved in the fatal fight, he may still be in possession of a large spring knife.

Fairweather is an experienced woodsman and may be hiding out somewhere in the Duncan-Cowichan area.

He is described by police as 24 to 27 years old, five feet nine inches tall, weighing about 175 pounds, with a dark complexion and dark brown hair.

When last seen he was wearing a mustache which may now be shaved off.

His nickname is "Sonny" and he sometimes uses the name A. R. Benson, police say.

Anyone seeing this man is asked to notify the nearest police officer immediately.

Early Snow Adds to Calgary Weather Woes

Calgary has taken a terrific beating from the weatherman this year, with too much rain, too little sunshine and this week too much snow too early in the fall. A total of 9.5 inches of snow fell in three days, and the only ones to enjoy it appeared to be the young fry, like the pair above shown near an "ice cream cone" tree in a city park. (CP photo.)

Lifting of Closure Expected Shortly

B.C. Forest Service officials said last night a lifting of the forest closure was imminent if weather conditions continue to decrease the fire hazard.

The closure was not lifted yesterday because rain was not general throughout the Vancouver forest district. Only 26 fires are now burning in the district.

Truck Kills Aged Chinese In Collision

A 61-year-old Chinese, Sing Chong, 519 Corderman, died about 10 p.m. Wednesday as the result of an accident at the B.C. Forest Products Limited mill, 371 Gorge Road.

City police, who investigated the accident yesterday, said it occurred when Chong was walking in the opposite direction.

He was treated for a compound fracture of the right leg by the company's first aid man, Alec Jarvie, and rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital by Victoria Ambulance Service.

At 10 p.m. Wednesday hospital officials said the elderly Chinese had died. Police were then notified.

They believe the man died from shock and loss of blood.

An inquest will be held on Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Thomson Funeral Home.

Change in Law Favors Canada

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Senate House of Representatives atomic committee was reported tonight to have voted to recommend a change in the Atomic Energy Law to permit Canada to use a United States process for processing uranium ore.

This word came from an authoritative person who asked not to be quoted by name.

Reds' Answer Still Awaited

TOKYO, Sept. 28 (Friday) (CP)—Communist leaders today were silent on what could be the United Nations command's last effort to revive the withering Korean armistice talks.

The command Thursday suggested moving the conference out of Kaesong. Later an Allied statement said the Reds were suspected of trying to goad the U.N. into breaking off the armistice negotiations.

At this critical period, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff, headed by plane for Tokyo from Washington. He will hold top-level conferences with Allied leaders.

The timing of his visit led to immediate speculation in Tokyo that he was bringing new and important instructions to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme U.N. commander.

While the Communists were officially silent, the Peiping radio heaped scorn on the U.N. liaison officers and said their postponement of a liaison meeting Thursday was "childish."

Abbott Urges Thrift

MONTREAL, Sept. 27 (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott invited Canadian housewives tonight to participate in Canada's defense plan by cutting down "thoughtless spending" and making thriftiness the fashion of the day.

If the word gets around, he said, that thoughtless spending and waste is not in keeping with the times, the Canadian housewife will have accomplished more to beat inflation than the government could by introducing price controls.

"A little restraint here, a little more critical appraisal of value there, an ingenious device for getting along with less expenditure somewhere else, repeated thousands of times across this country can have a striking effect," the minister said.

He was invited to help sponsor a "thrift campaign" by the Canadian Council of Women in Canada.

St. Laurent Flies South For Seaway Approval

OTTAWA, Sept. 27 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent flew to Washington today to get President Truman's clearance on a St. Lawrence seaway built without the help of the United States government.

Mr. St. Laurent's flight made it evident the Canadian cabinet is on the verge of undertaking the huge project by itself, though there was still no official word here that the government had decided to plunge alone into the $700,000,000 scheme.

While all sources here were silent on the direct purpose of the prime minister's hasty Washington trip, the major speculation was that he was to make a direct approach to President Truman to issue executive orders that would start the machinery rolling to start the big St. Lawrence project.

He would have to give the go-ahead, with the Canadian government, to enable the International Joint Commission, with jurisdiction over boundary

Abandon Secrecy On Arena Trouble

Situation Seen Bad,
Likely to Get Worse

The arena commission's "keep it dark" policy has been scrapped, commission chairman J. Carl Pendray declared last night.

From now on, he promised, Memorial Arena troubles will be aired in public, where the people who own the rink—Victoria's private citizens—can hear what's going on.

This change in policy was brought about by the seriousness of the arena situation, Mr. Pendray said.

See Also Stories on Page 13

"I'm not going to hide anything," he said. "The situation is bad."

And it's likely to get worse before it gets better.

"Every time I go over to the rink, something new seems to have gone wrong," Mr. Pendray said. "Being an arena commissioner is becoming more and more of a full-time job."

PLENTY OF WORRIES

The commission's five-hour closed meeting Monday gave commissioners plenty to worry about. The meeting was called to bring the commissioners up to date on arena troubles.

They were told: Thousands of cracks in the arena walls will have to be caulked before the building can be painted. Some are expansion joints and can easily be filled.

No provision was made for ventilation of the storerooms for the folding chairs used for concerts and other events. Result: Half the chairs have been ruined by mildew. This lack of ventilation can be easily fixed, Mr. Pendray said.

There is no way of heating water for after-the-game showers for lacrosse players, without firing up one of the arena's big boilers. This is a job for a stationary engineer.

PAINT OFFERED

The cracks in the wall were discovered after Mr. Pendray, head of a paint manufacturing firm, had offered to donate enough paint to cover the building. If the city's painters would do the job free.

Now the arena commission is

City police are investigating the mysterious appearance of an injured man who was "dumped" on a city policeman's front doorstep about 5 a.m. yesterday.

Roused from his sleep by the noise was Sgt. William Andrews, 2609 Avebury, who is on holidays.

He phoned for the police who took Archie Neil, 370 East 56th Avenue, Vancouver, to Jubilee Hospital. He is in "fairly good condition."

Police say the man had been in a fight at Patricia Bay airport, transported from the airport by person or persons unknown, and dumped on the sergeant's doorstep.

He is suffering from cuts and bruises.

Iran Army Bars Britons From Abadan Refinery

LONDON, Sept. 27 (CP)—Iran's army today barred British employees from the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's Abadan refinery, backing the government's order taking over the nationalized property.

Only 10 superintendents out of 300 British employees—all ordered to quit Iran by Oct. 4—were allowed into the British-controlled company's refinery.

Simultaneously, Iran's oil guard demanded that all essential refinery services be handed over to the government, and ordered that the Administration and accounts department be turned over Sunday.

The army's move followed a day of critical developments in the tense situation created by Premier Mohammed Mossadeq's decision to nationalize Britain's oil holdings.

Earlier today, President Truman stepped into the controversy with an appeal to Iran not to throw British technicians out of the refinery. Qualified sources said Truman also counselled Britain against the use of force to protect the refinery.

Iranian troops have been put on the alert against any British military counter-move. Gen. Ibrahim Arca left Tehran today with orders to mine the refinery and the oilfields and to put the army and navy in readiness.

Iran has threatened to blow up the refinery—the world's largest—if Britain forces land at Abadan. Meanwhile, reports from Basra, Iraq, said British naval forces were being redistributed. The

Truman Seeks Salary Probe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—President Truman, taking note of charges that graft is "running rampant," asked Congress today for swift passage of a law to expose the total income of all top United States officials each year—including congressmen.

In an unheralded move, Truman said it should be put on record exactly how much money, gifts or loans are received by those responsible for running the country.

He said the list should include members of Congress themselves as well as cabinet members, generals, admirals, judges, all high-salaried government employees, and bigwigs of both major political parties.

Truman said the truth should be known, partly because there has been "a deliberate effort to disregard the government service."

Out of Season

Plump Willow Grouse Spared Fate on Table

CHEMUNUS, Sept. 27.—A bird in the hand was returned to the bush by a Chemunus woman with a conscience.

Aroused by the crash of glass at 8:30 a.m., Mrs. John Kenny of Maple Street found that a willow grouse, apparently bent on suicide, had plunged through her living room window.

The half-stunned bird flapped around the room until it was snared in a cloth thrown over its head. It was a plump specimen, "Too bad," said Mrs. Kenny, "willow grouse are out of season. Why couldn't it have been a blue?"

Household plans for roast grouse dinner faded when Mrs. Kenny gave the gate-crasher to a B.C. Telephone Co. crew to liberate at Crofton.

Then she swept up broken glass which was scattered from wall to wall.

Expert Red Agitators Work in Europe

A former Soviet secret agent says in the following exclusive article, part of three that both Russians and German Communists believed the invasion of South Korea. Dr. Eduard Schulz worked as a Soviet agent for years until his recent escape to West Berlin and his information on Soviet strategy is the subject of study by Western intelligence officers.

By DR. EDUARD SCHULZ

Former Soviet Secret Agent

(As told to Richard S. Wolf, International News Service staff correspondent.)

BERLIN, Sept. 24 (INS)—A corps of ruthless professional Communists, whom the Kremlin has used continuously in the past to trigger war and revolution, has taken power in East Germany to prepare a base for Soviet aggression.

Some of these men directed Communist forces in the Spanish civil war; others, as members of the Far Eastern bureau of the Cominform, played leading roles in achieving Communist victory in China and helped set the stage for the onslaught in Korea.

Their reunion in the Soviet zone of Germany is no coincidence; it signifies the return of Moscow's attention to Europe as the theatre for new political and military ventures.

Their task is to apply their talents and experience to the Kremlin's impending drive for conquest of the continent.

The most prominent of the men is Gen. Wilhelm Zaisser, chief of the East German Security Service, who distinguished himself as "Gen. Gomez" during the Spanish civil war.

CIVIL WAR EXPERT

The Kremlin regards Zaisser as one of its foremost "civil war specialists." In this function he headed the German Communist military apparatus before the Nazis took power. Later he served as commander of the 13th Brigade in Spain and NKVD chief of all the Communist international brigades. His duties have taken him to the Middle East as adviser to King Ibn Saud, and to Manchuria before the war as a "business agent."

In the past Zaisser has worked closely with Soviet Marshals Rokossovsky, now head of the Polish armed forces, and Malinovsky, who as chief of the Soviet military mission in Mukden directed the Korean invasion.

Zaisser and Malinovsky were together from November, 1949, to January, 1950, in Moscow, mapping out the Korean action under the supervision of Politburo members Laurenti Beria and Georgi Malenkov.

Zaisser is the most powerful figure in the Communist puppet government in East Germany, surpassing in actual authority even Walter Ulbricht, secretary of the Communist Party and deputy premier.

Two former members of the Far East bureau, Robert Korb and Herman Axen, are now in charge of all propaganda and agitation activities in East and West Germany.

Korb has been placed over Gerhardt Eisler, one-time Kremlin agent in the United States, whose power has sharply diminished since his return to his native Germany a couple of years ago.

Another Far East bureau veteran, Heinz Hoffman, is director of the military training of the people's police army. Herbert Gruenstein, also from the Far East Command, is chief of political indoctrination in the police army.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

Esquimalt by-election is scheduled on the same day as the Community Chest one-night stand. It's too late to do anything about it now, but we shouldn't let such a thing happen again. Why argue whose fault it was? Surely the two authorities could have got together and staggered the excitement by a day or two.

The government says "Get out and vote." The Community Chest says "Stay home and give."

Most of the voting will be over when the giving begins, but a razor-tax of election day won't encourage Esquimalt people to spend an evening at the fireside.

A New York toy manufacturer announced the firm will turn out no more penny banks—just those that take nickels, dimes and quarters.

"Penny banks will buy very little today, and most children do not show much appreciation for anything less than a dime," the piggy bank executive said.

As inflation roars on, children will soon be asking: "Dad, can I have $1.00 to go to a movie?"

When they grow up, some of them will wander Skidroad whining to passers-by:

"Mister, can I have $1,000,000 for a cuppa cawfee?"

This isn't going to hurt at all. It's only a suggestion. Why not add fluorine to city water to prevent tooth decay?

Tests show that fluorine has cut decay considerably. But Canada's National Research Council is not ready to endorse it. Until the council does so, B.C. Dental Association will take no action.

Victoria's health department and Greater Victoria Water Board can do nothing until someone gives them a lead. So fluorination may not go beyond the talking stage for five years, a report says.

A six-year test by the National Research Council showed good results, but figures were not announced. One United States town reported about three years ago that fluorine had cut tooth decay in children by 50 per cent.

Busy Victoria dentists admitted long ago that they are not afraid of doing themselves out of a job. We old fogies, whose molars have been a playground for bacteria all these years, can keep the dentists living comfortably the rest of their lives.

Cost of installing and running fluorination equipment here is estimated at five to 15 cents per capita.

The money would be well spent if it could save thousands of families a dental bill which runs into big money. And every youngster who has shivered in a dentist's waiting room will second the motion with glee.

Tests have gone on long enough to expose any harmful effects. The United States may have a reliable report already. If so, why wait for the National Research Council?

A smart candidate for civic office might make some private enquiries, and tell the voters what he finds out. "Open wider, please."

Rails, Power Disrupted In Fierce Ontario Storm

TORONTO, Sept. 27 (CP).—Veteran railroaders called it one of the worst autumn storms in northern Ontario's history.

A freight train jumped the tracks, Sault Ste. Marie's power was off intermittently for hours. Great Lakes freighters scurried to shelter, telegraph poles foot of snow fell over a wide

To Investigate B.C. 'Blacklist'

VANCOUVER, Sept. 27 (CP).—Executive members of the B.C. Teachers' Federation today promised immediate investigation of charges that a secret so-called "blacklist" existed on B.C. school teachers.

Speakers at a meeting in Richmond of school trustees, a teachers' federation spokesman and ratepayers, charged that contents of the list were withheld from teachers and school boards.

Trustee Harold Smith charged that normal schools "blacklist" many teachers they have just issued teaching certificates to.

He said the certificates show that the holder is qualified to teach school, yet the inspectors receive confidential reports "showing that the teacher was graded 'four or five' by the normal school."

The meeting was prompted by charges that the Richmond school board had hired two "inferior" teachers.

Artificial Rainfall Produced on Contract

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 27 (INS).—The Bonneville Power Administration reported today that professional rainmakers now are producing rain—to turn the wheels of Pacific Northwest defense industries.

The power administration is paying $50,500 for what the agency hopes will be enough rain to offset a drought-caused power shortage to counteract relocation of aluminum plants and a Pacific Northwest "brownout."

Clouds are being tapped in the upper Columbia drainage area in Idaho and western Montana, and rainfall of 1.3 inches was noted at Burke, Idaho; 1.2 inches at Hungry Horse, Mont.; .9 inch at Mullan Pass, Idaho, and .5 inch at Superior, Mont.

In Portland, Jack Stevens of the administration's power resources office, said:

"The water behind Grand Coulee Dam is 3 of a foot higher than it was a week ago and the flow has increased by 4,000 second-feet. We know rain actually arise, a railroad president was "hissing" for three hours aboard one of his own trains.

Those were some of the things that happened in northern Ontario before Wednesday night's storm finally fizzled out over James Bay.

As it moved northeast from tornadoes that killed seven persons in Wisconsin, splintered barns, silos and homes, and killed scores of livestock.

Ontario escaped without loss of life.

Galeforce winds mired down overcast Superior and Huron, whipping giant-sized waves that shattered wharves, battered beach houses and tore up shoreline trees at some points. Grain and ore freighters rode out the storm in the comparative shelter of Whitefish and Thunder Bays.

LIGHTS BLOWN OUT

The storm blew out several transformers at Sault Ste. Marie, leaving sections of the city without power for hours. Waves in St. Mary's River halted ferry traffic to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and St. Joseph Island, down river.

At Thessalon, 19 cars and a locomotive of a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train were derailed by a washout during the height of the storm. No one was hurt. Communications were cut as telegraph lines snapped.

Canadian National Railway section gangs worked all night on main lines in the Armstrong, Long Lac-Port Arthur district clearing shattered telegraph poles and wires from the tracks.

Some of the old families at Lunenburg, N.S., have been in the fishing business for 200 years.

Commonwealth Raw Materials Plan Aimed at Easing Economic Strains

LONDON, Sept. 27 (Reuters).—Britain tonight announced a vast Commonwealth plan to boost raw material output for defense industries and to help its economy stand the strain of rearmament.

The scheme—affecting nearly 500,000,000 persons—was announced by the treasury following four days of secret talks with representatives from the Commonwealth and colonies.

Under the plan each country has agreed to step up its production of raw materials in an effort to raise living standards and keep up supplies to industry the world over.

They also hope to avert violent price fluctuations on both raw materials and manufactured goods.

DETAILS WITHHELD

Richard Stokes, Lord Privy Seal and minister for raw materials, did not give details of production target figures or how long it would be before the plan got under way.

The conference agreed to continue Commonwealth support of the Washington international materials conference by "arranging measures for dealing with current shortage and allocation problems and for such other matters as might be agreed-to be appropriate."

Right Welcome News

CONSISTENT improvement in the condition of His Majesty, appointment of a Council of State to relieve the King of some of the pressure of his duties while convalescing, and confirmation that the Canadian visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip will proceed only one week behind schedule were all welcome indications to this nation yesterday that most of the sudden crisis to the Royal Family is now happily over. Relief that King George's condition has improved so favorably will be widespread throughout the British Commonwealth. Canada, naturally, will be delighted that the Royal tour may now take place without apprehension or anxiety concerning the monarch. Everything that was scheduled for the tour originally will no doubt proceed, one week later.

It is true that the season is advanced and that even the postponement of one week may make a considerable difference in the weather, but that cannot be helped. The warmth of Canada's welcome to the young couple, as to Their Majesties themselves in May, 1939, will make up for the somewhat uncertain vagaries of the weather. At that, Canada's Indian summer may yet shine through for the occasion, with its riot of colors from coast to coast. Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip will reach Quebec on the new schedule on Oct. 9, and will arrive at Victoria on Oct. 21.

The change in the date may influence British Columbia to suggest variation of some outdoor items on the official program which might prove unseasonable, but there is not likely to be any important change in the approved itinerary. A special session of the B.C. Legislature which was tentatively determined for a conflicting date may be postponed for a few days to keep the slate clear. From Halifax to Victoria, nothing is surer than that the Royal visit undertaken in such dramatic circumstances will be one of the happiest occasions within the memory of this nation.

Just One More Finger in the Pie

WHEN the city council adopted the Doble report in principle, with concurrence in its recommendation for the appointment of a traffic superintendent, it was thought that at long last the council had recognized traffic management as a major operation of civic government today. Subsequent actions show that nothing could be farther from the case. The schedule of duties prepared for the position of traffic "superintendent" would leave that official devoid of authority over anything or anyone, subject to all the frustrations and delays which have been the despair of those who have tried in the past to put traffic regulation and planning on a systematic, farsighted basis.

The very title of superintendent, as loosely approved earlier by the council, becomes a misnomer. The appointee instead would enjoy the official designation of "technical assistant (traffic and communications)." The salary range decided upon would relegate him to a position of minor importance in the civic pay scale, junior to many officials whose usefulness in the affairs of a well-regulated city would be no larger than his own. He would be subordinate in everything to the heads of other departments, enjoying no vestige of delegated responsibility or authority. All he would ever be able to do would be to study and recommend. Nor in the list of duties is there a single mention of public education, which should be one of the chief functions of a real traffic superintendent.

What this appointment would do, in fact, would be to put just one more finger in the traffic pie, when there are far too many in it already.

The essence of the Doble report on co-ordination was that instead of traffic management being spread among half a dozen civic departments and advisory bodies as at present, it should be centralized in one specialist with enough executive authority to get necessary things done quickly and systematically. As matters stand it is possible for a change to be proposed by one official considered by another, designed by a third and carried out by a fourth, provided it doesn't get lost on the way. Apparently the intention is that this unwieldy, disconnected arrangement should continue.

The subservient duties to be assigned to the appointee show lack of intelligent appreciation of the co-ordinated superintendence needed. The city manager, empowered by the council to fix the conditions of appointment, should reconsider them very carefully before committing the city further by advertising a position which a man of experience, ability and vision might find untenable.

A Gross Distortion

THE BEVANITES of the British Labor Party have published a pamphlet entitled "Going Our Way." Unfortunately for them, perhaps, for it assails the Attlee government's rearmament plans, it was printed before the forthcoming general election was announced, although distributed two days later. The Bevanites are now in the position of rallying to the side of those they condemn.

Of main interest to Canadians and others of the Western cause, however, is one piece of gross distortion. The pamphlet asserts that the military strength of the Soviet Union has been overestimated, and cites Gen. Eisenhower in support of their claim. This is done by lifting a sensible remark out of its context to give it a new slant. In a recent statement Eisenhower had deplored the fright and hysteria of some Western groups and said that "the material, intellectual, technical and professional resources of the free world are overwhelming."

So they are, potentially. Like coal or minerals lying untouched in the bowels of the earth, however, they are useless until mobilized. It was the superior resources of the west that put paid to Hitler's ambition, but only after these had been assembled for action at the cost of much blood, sweat and tears. This is so elementary a fact that the distorted application of Eisenhower's statement reflects the true bias of the Bevanites.

It is Britain's good fortune that she is not likely to be at the mercy of a Bevanite regime, and it will be the good fortune of Canadian and other western lands if no such false concept ever holds sway. The Russian military might is proved, and is the sole reason she has a dozen satellites firmly in her dictatorial grip. It is her visible standing threat to all free nations that makes the present rearmament drive the only safety factor worth having by people anxious to stay free of Russian Communism.

BOBBIN LACE

Sir—Would you please put an item in your paper about an appeal for bobbin lace. In the making of which we are the only club of its kind in Canada. The beads are about the size of peas and over. Anybody being kind enough to send them would be acknowledged, and postage sent back to them. The beads act as weights on the bobbins.

ART DISPLAY

Sir—In the Sept. 23 article by John Kyle, A.R.C.A., I was most disappointed with the criticism given the work of Roloff Beny now on exhibition in the Art Centre.

In Roloff Beny's work we see a young creative artist portray a profound statement with great simplicity. He has not found it necessary to resort to subtle color nuances and tricky technique to convince the public he has talent.

He has resolved in "black and white" what the greater majority of the silk screen artists also mentioned in the article have failed to do in color.

This "not too serious" work of Mr. Beny deserves a great deal of attention, and if the work of his which Mr. Kyle would term "serious," is resolved with one-half as much creative ability it would most certainly be worth viewing.

Creative art at this date must be "modern," for without creative evolution art would be in a most uninteresting and lethargic state.

Art, to be classed as such, is not a case of something being technically perfect. It is something that must be vitally alive, evolving continuously towards greater and more profound aesthetic experiences.

Mr. Beny's work is definitely not static; it is if nothing else a contribution to this necessary evolution. We must give him due credit for enlarging our experiences in an idiom we must learn to accept and enjoy if we ourselves are to become a vital part in this necessary evolution in art; termed in a derogatory way by those lethargic individuals who would rather let art die than seek a greater understanding.—"The Modern Movement."

ATKINS ROAD

Sir—Recently the water main on the Island Highway, near the Thetis Lake road, burst causing all island traffic to be detoured along Atkins Road. This stream of traffic crawled, bumper to bumper, at less than ten miles an hour for three-quarters of an hour; and yet in that time I counted at least 15 minor accidents in front of my house alone, accidents such as cars in the ditch and torn fenders. Now this is a disgrace to this country and it is only the condition of Atkins Road to blame. If, as suggested before by Mr. Cunningham, there comes a war to our own back doors, the highway would be constantly congested with army vehicles and machines of war and this road would be the only other means of supply and escape for this section of the island. This example proved Atkins Road impassable for this, so if only for defence purposes, something should be done.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

WHEN I was having my hair cut this week my barber, kindly chap, said he wondered how columnists found something fresh to write about every day. I wonder that, too, sometimes but of course I hug such weakness to my secret breast, so I just nodded benignly.

After all, I couldn't do his job half as well as he does; which introduces the subject of talent, mettle, or inclination. My barber himself made some remark about it being a good thing that people spread their skills in various directions. This is by way of being a bromide but it's still a potent observation.

Fancy if no one wanted to be an airplane pilot, a baker, a postman, an Esquimaux politician, or, indeed, a barber. A fine half-world we would live in then.

The Windsor Star had some thoughts the other day on natural talents, which apparently it thinks should be allowed to cover a multitude of aberrations. It was rebuking Mr. Roger Babson, the statistician, for deploring that Mr. Arnold Cream, alias Jersey Joe Walcott, was a prizefighter. A man of Mr. Cream's character, perseverance, and interest in the church, said Mr. Babson, should have expressed himself on a higher plane.

This, said The Windsor Star in effect, was nonsense. Boxing was just as gentle a sport as running or basketball, and anyway "God doesn't distribute talents without purpose and in Mr. Cream's case the natural gift was a pair of educated fists."

One might argue, I daresay, that Mr. Cream's preference wasn't necessarily inspired; his skill might have been cultivated merely because of a distaste for, say, plumbing or haberdashery. Many a high-class performer of any kind makes himself such by sheer hard work, while all the time his real bent is betrayed by his hobby. The efficient bus driver or bank president, for example, might be an artist with a fretsaw, his natural gift.

I doubt that most men, in any case, really find their true mettle in the vocation they pursue. The average man is pitchforked into his calling as much by chance as by choice.

The Windsor Star goes farther than Mr. Cream, however—much too far. It cites the individual extrovert who swallows swords for a living, or balances on a chair—with one hand while spinning a barrel with his feet, as worthy of praise because he was divinely gifted to do so.

Perhaps it does take a peculiar genius to swing from a trapeze with his teeth or sit for 50 useless hours on top of a flagpole. I would hate to think, however, that these follies are evidence of some hallowed endowment.

True it is that talents are spread around and they flourish in varying quantities, according to the way they are used. Some men let them lie fallow, others cultivate them with zeal; and without doubt it is right to think of them as natural gifts. But it stretches the point to excuse all human activity on the ground it is sanctified by a heavenly distribution of talent, which in essence is what The Windsor Star claims.

By such a token a burglar is doing what he was created to do when he picks a lock with uniquely skillful fingers, and somehow I don't believe this is supposed to be the way of things at all.

Talent may be divinely inspired, but individuals can't let it go at that; they have a part to play too. There is a talent for taking pains, or doing a good day's work of any kind, for instance—and it, I fancy, was universally distributed even if it is often ignored.

Grotewohl's Unscrupulous Manoeuvre

By W. N. EWER

LONDON—This move by the East German Communists is rather intriguing. And I am not surprised that the Communist paper here shows signs of being slightly bewildered and of not quite knowing what line to take about it.

Herr Otto Grotewohl, the East German premier, has announced, with the approval of his parliament, that his government believes German unity can be speeded up by "carrying out free democratic elections to a German national assembly." He goes even farther. He declares that "such elections must be carried out on equal terms for the whole of Germany, all citizens to be ensured and guaranteed freedom and equality of the individual, and all democratic parties equal freedom of activity."

Now, from such a source, that is a very startling statement indeed. If it were genuinely and sincerely meant, it would imply a complete and total change of policy and of fundamental political principle on the part of Herr Grotewohl and of his colleagues—presumably with the assent and approval of the Soviet government.

Last year, when the West German government and the Western allies suggested that free all-German elections were a necessary preliminary for German unity, their proposal was met by stony silence, on the part of both the East German government and the Soviet government. Early this year, when Dr. Adenauer laid down as an indispensable condition for the election of any all-German assembly the guarantee of full personal and political liberty throughout the country, he was denounced by the East German Communist press as "opposing the will of the people" and as thereby incurring their "just anger and flaming indignation." Now, suddenly, what was a vile heresy nine months ago has apparently become orthodoxy.

If one were to take Herr Grotewohl seriously, if one were to regard his offer as honestly and sincerely intended, one would have to conclude that he and his colleagues are ready, for the sake of unity, to change the whole structure of their state, to renounce all that they have been doing since it was created and to adopt those methods and principles of "bourgeois democracy" which they have unceasingly and unsparingly condemned.

The "German Democratic Republic," like the other "people's democracies" of Eastern Europe, has been based on the denial of free elections and the denial of civic and political liberties to all opponents of the Communist or Communist-controlled governments. The only elections are, in fact, Communist nominations; the only candidates are those selected and approved beforehand by the Communist organization; no opposition and no open criticism is tolerated. And this system has not only been practised; it has been proclaimed to be a new and "higher" form of democracy.

Now if one were to take Herr Grotewohl at his word, the men who have been both preaching and practising a "people's democracy" are ready to abandon it entirely and to revert to methods which they have until now denounced.

Moreover, by implication, Herr Grotewohl appears to be condemning the methods and constitutions of the other "people's democracies." For, if free elections and civic liberties are to be given to the people of Eastern Germany, why should they be denied to the people of Poland and Hungary and the rest? Why should they be denied to the people of the Soviet Union itself? The new Grotewohl doctrine comes very near to implied criticism of Stalin himself. Which, as Euclid would have said, is absurd.

There are other reasons why it would be absurd to regard the proposal as seriously intended. They are hard, practical ones. Nobody knows better than Herr Grotewohl that, if there were really free elections and freedom of expression in Eastern Germany, his "Socialist Unity Party" (which is in fact Communist) would be very fortunate if it gained 30 per cent of the votes. Ten per cent would be a far more likely figure. Indeed, they at times admit almost frankly that their real justification for the existing repression of freedom is that it is the only possible way in which they can maintain themselves in power and office, and the only way to ensure that the country has the Communist leadership which they believe essential for the "building of a socialist society." And it is just as incredible that they should be seriously proposing something which would result in their being ejected from power and reduced to the condition of a small and impotent minority. For it is beyond any doubt that free, all-German elections would return a parliament with a crushing anti-Communist majority.

Herr Grotewohl, therefore, cannot for a minute be taken seriously, or his proposal as a serious one. Coming from such a quarter, it simply does not make sense. And it is very understandable that Communists in other countries hardly know what to make of it.

What is the purpose of this rather naive manoeuvre? That is easy enough to see. The calculation clearly is that the West Germans will be so attracted by the offer of "unity a reality tomorrow," so lured by the prospect of this wholesale conversion to democracy, that they will eagerly enter into negotiations; and that, as a necessary condition for any chance of success, they will abjure all association with the Western powers and all ideas of taking their share in the Western defense system. At the very least, the result might be confusion of thinking, hesitation and delay.

It is, as I say, a rather naive manoeuvre. For there are few West Germans nowadays who are likely to be impressed by Herr Grotewohl's sudden profession of faith in everything he renounced when he went over to the Communists. But it is also a thoroughly and characteristically unscrupulous manoeuvre. Stalinism for its own ends, which are simply and solely those of Soviet power politics, is perfectly ready to profess today what it condemned yesterday, or to condemn today what it professed yesterday. The spectacle of Herr Grotewohl professing willingness to accept the principles and methods of Western democracy is a grotesque one. It is also a very revealing one.

While Visiting Britain

IT may be that in Canada we put too much emphasis on the outside of our dwelling places. Now and again in some of the bigger cities we come upon arty or intellectual people, usually young, who manage to make a perfectly delightful apartment over some old garage or stable. And in the older and run down areas of cities, you will find people who grow weary of trying to find, or pay for, a conventional modern house or bungalow in the outer districts, and have rented or bought some ramshackle house, maybe 60 or 90 years old, and have, by means of a little architecture and paint, converted it into something mightily comfortable. One of these, a newspaperman of my acquaintance, did it chiefly to escape the long journey up and down town each day, which he felt was making him old before his time.

As for his neighbors, who are mostly roomers, transients and the lowest paid of mortals, he asks: who in Canada pays any attention to his neighbor anyway? In recent weeks, both in Britain and France, I have had the chance to see a great many experiments in dwelling places. In communities like London and the coastal cities of both England and France, there was indescribable damage in the war, which has not yet been repaired. Housing is terribly short. And the trick of making a habitation regardless of the outside appearance of a place has now been developed to a high art by thousands of people both young and old. In premises which from the outside would certainly call slums in Canada, I have been a guest in some of the most attractive homes I ever saw. In this desperate world, we are learning about the importance of what is within rather than without.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

The latest development in millinery is a woman's hat which can be inflated to act as an umbrella. This should be popular, as in any crowd it can be counted on not only to catch the eye but also to put it out.

When parliament meets again we suggest the session should open with a brief silence in sympathy with the taxpayers.

A man was hauled before the tribunal, accused of having slapped a woman in the bus. "Why did you do that?" the judge asked.

"It was this way, your honor. She sat near me, just at the entrance. She opened her bag, pulled out her purse, closed the bag, opened the purse, took out some change, closed the purse, opened the bag, put back the purse, and closed the bag. Then she noticed that the conductor had passed by her and was going toward the rear of the bus. She again opened her bag, took out her purse, closed the bag, opened the purse, put back the money, closed the purse, opened the bag, put back the purse, and closed the bag. But the conductor was coming back, and she opened again her bag, took out her purse, closed the bag, opened the purse, took out some money, and—

"For the love of Heaven, stop it!" the magistrate exploded. "You are going to drive me mad!"

"That's exactly what happened to me, your honor," the accused man replied.

Symphony Opens Next Wednesday

Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace and Mrs. Wallace, and Mayor Percy George and Mrs. George, patrons of the Victoria Symphony Society, will attend the opening concert of the eleventh season as concert-master. The first half of the program will consist of the performance of Verdi's overture from "La Forza del Destino," Barber's "An Eight-String Quartet," and Brahms' "Three Hungarian Dances." Fund Queen Urges Club To Aid Drive

In her most recent role as "Miss Community Chest," Inez McLeod yesterday urged members of the Rotary Club to do everything possible to make the forthcoming fundraising drive a success. Miss McLeod is this year's P.N.E.U. queen and previously was named Miss B.C. Products Fair.

George Warren, club president, was presented with a large red feather, which Miss McLeod attached to his lapel. "It's essential that this drive be a success," said Mr. Warren. In a program arranged by the club's vocational service committee, headed by Leonard Hobbs, members heard E. U. Anderson speak on "Competitor Relations," G. E. Student Teachers See Source of Destruction

Normal School students yesterday got a close look at the raw material of destruction.

The school's entire student body, faculty and staff have signed up for a special civil defense course.

Yesterday they were invited to the radioactive ore from which radium and uranium are derived. To help the students hear what was happening "inside" the ore, their instructor, Major Alexander Cathcart Bruce, provided a new type of meter for measuring radioactivity.

The sound was relayed over a public address system.

RAPID TATTOO

The students listened at first to the slow click of the meter as ever-present cosmic rays streaked into the earth from outer space.

Then they heard the beat of the meter increase to a rapid tattoo as the instrument was brought closer to the pitchblende.

Major Bruce gave the class its second lecture on the atom bomb, and showed a film on "Survival Under Atomic Attack."

August Breaks Records For Foreign Car Influx

An all-time record for any month in history was established in British Columbia in August when 46,773 foreign cars entered the province on traveler's permits.

Previous high was in July, 1950, when 42,809 foreign cars entered the province. Total for August, 1950, was 41,017.

At the same time the eight-month total for 1951 reached 181,023, compared with 159,232 in the same period of 1950, an increase of 14 per cent.

Trade and Industry Minister Leslie Eyres said he believed continued improvement in highways and increasing availability of better tourist accommodation were two of the major reasons for British Columbia's steadily increasing tourist industry.

I am confident we will surpass the record created last year when 221,542 foreign vehicles entered British Columbia," he said.

PASTURE

The extremely dry summer has resulted in poor growth and a serious lack of hay and late fall pasture. It is imperative that pasture be fertilized to bring on fall growth and also put the pasture in shape to withstand the winter ahead. Buckerfield's have a wide range of fertilizers for this purpose, including 10-20-10 and Sulphate of Ammonia.

Boilermakers Say 50-Cent Hourly Wage Boost Still Not Equal to Money in Other Trades

On a percentage basis, boilermakers will have gained less since 1939 than any other shipyard trade even if they get the full 50-cent-an-hour increase they are striking for, union spokesmen said last night.

They were replying to a joint shipyard management statement issued Wednesday in which boilermakers were charged with demanding a substantial differential over other shipyard trades anywhere in Canada.

"We're basing all our demands on 1939 levels," boilermakers said last night. "The government set 1939 as a base year for their figures and that's the one we're using."

Other shipyard trades have won increases over 1939 wage scales of from 135 to 184 per cent," the spokesman said.

"A 50-cent-an-hour increase now would only mean a 132 1/2 per cent increase over our 1939 level."

Union men referred to a newspaper advertisement published by shipyard managers and said: "We have nothing to hide and no desire to burden the general public with of a $110,000 yearly government subsidy for its floating drydock on top of its profits."

They criticized the shipyards for charging the unions with hurting the city's economic life by their strike, charging that "the shipyards have already

STILL BEHIND

"We will still be behind the other trades if we get our 50 cents. We're not trying to get ahead of the other trades, we're just trying to catch up."

Boilermakers said that the grievances leading up to the present strike dated back further than five years.

They said that before the war, boilermakers were paid a basic wage that was higher than that paid to other shipyard trades.

They said that the extra was paid because their work is classified as a "hazardous occupation." They claimed that this means that they have to pay extra premiums for life insurance and have a shorter work life than most trades.

They said that their extra pay was set aside during war emergency years, but that they had been trying to get it back ever since.

HARDER WORK

Boilermakers also said that their trade was subject to frequent layoffs, and that boilermakers' work was harder on clothes than most trades.

They agreed that if they win their increase they would be making wages 30 per cent higher than equivalent workers on the east coast make, but charged that company profits here were similarly higher than the east coast.

They added that Burrard Drydocks, parent company of Yarrow, Ltd., was also in receipt

Playing tag with fish

If you meet a lobster wearing an aluminum tag, don't waste sympathy. It wasn't hauled up for parking opposite a hydrant. The tag was put there by the National Fisheries Board which is scuttling out marine life stories. A salmon, so decorated, was re-caught after four years and a lobster after ten. The tags were still in excellent condition.

Aluminum's ability to withstand the elements is one of the advantages which make it increasingly popular for walls, roofs and architectural embellishments. An aluminum cornice in Montreal was taken down recently — undamaged after being exposed to the weather since 1895. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Commission Probe Seen For Saddler, Pep Brawl

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Willie Pep and Sandy Saddler may be called on the carpet by the New York State Athletic Commission for last night's wrestling match with boxing gloves.

Bob Christenberry, new chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, today directed all officials present at the featherweight title bout to submit written reports.

If the reports warrant, a full dress order hearing probably will be called before the commission next week.

Referee Ray Miller and Judges Art Aldala and Frank Forbes were ordered to report to Dan Dowd, executive secretary of the commission, along with the referees who worked the preliminary bouts.

"It would be presumptuous of me to comment until I received the reports," said Christenberry. "It was learned the commission was far from satisfied with the dirty brawl in which most of the rules were fractured."

Pep, who quit in his corner after the ninth round to lose on a ninth-round technical knockout, went home to Hartford, Conn., this morning.

TAKES MEDICAL. Saddler, showing no signs of battle, took his pre-induction physical for the army. The champion is 25 years old with brief previous service in the navy. He was sent to the station hospital at Fort Jay for further tests.

Veteran boxing observers raked their memories to recall more disgraceful exhibitions of foul tactics. All seemed agreed on one thing this is the end. Four fights between the two was too much. Even Charlie Johnston, Saddler's manager, agreed. "That's the end," he said. "Who'd want to see it?" But we'll fight him tomorrow for the right price if anybody wants it.

Entries are expected from Arrow Furniture and Elks' senior "B" men's clubs.

Time Limited For Cage Loop Applications

Teams wishing to enter the Victoria and District Basketball Association have only three days left in which to file their entries.

Application forms may be obtained from secretary, June E. Rawlinson, and must be returned to her before Sunday evening. Miss Rawlinson may be reached at B4566.

Entries have been received from two girls' teams and three boys' teams so far. They are: Intermediate "A" girls, Arrow Furniture, entered by Hank Cassio; an unnamed junior girls' team entered by Cassio; Mount View High School Intermediate "B" boys, and two midget boys' teams. Tillamook, entered by Gar Taylor, and St. Louis College, entered by Brother O'Keefe.

Entries are expected from Arrow Furniture and Elks' senior "B" men's clubs.

Eight Major Grid Teams In Action This Week-End

By The Canadian Press

All eight of Canada's major football teams will see action this week-end.

In the east, the powerful Hamilton Tiger-Cats, leaders by four points in the Big Four Saturday, travel to Ottawa Saturday for a game with Rough Riders, while Montreal Alouettes play host Sunday to Toronto Argonauts.

In the Western Interprovincial Union, Edmonton Eskimos, on top by six points, take on Saskatchewan Roughriders at Edmonton and Winnipeg Blue Bombers play Calgary Stampeders at Calgary. Both are Saturday games.

Tiger-Cats strike out for Ottawa with a record of four victories and one defeat. They lost 17-16 last Sunday to Montreal.

Rough Riders, Alouettes and Argonauts are tied for second place with two wins and three losses apiece.

One Big Four ruling may come under the hatchet Sunday in Montreal at the semi-annual meeting of the league executive. It is the veto on players changing clubs within the football season.

When Alouettes tried to take on Jake Dunlap, cut from Ottawa, the rule barred the transfer and Argo president Bob Moran said that he for one was in favor of scrapping the rule.

Good Catches Being Taken At Brentwood

There were few boats out in Brentwood Bay during the week but most of those out brought back fish. It was reported from Hall's Boathouse yesterday.

The Bay has an abundance of grise at the present time and springs and coho are still being taken.

W. Waller brought in the record catch of the year at Swartz Bay this week when he boated a 49-pound spring and four coho ranging in size from 11½ to 16 pounds. R. Mathews at Randle's Landing, announced yesterday.

Mathews also reported that J. Frost brought in a pair of coho, 12 and 13 pounds. The fish were hooked off Dock Island on a fly and three ounces of weight.

Among the anglers who successfully registered catches at Hall's Boathouse this week were: Mrs. R. Olson, three springs, largest 19 pounds and six grise; Fred Currie and Pat McLean, 2 and 4 pound springs, two grise; G. A. Taylor, eight grise; V. Bowman, 16-pound spring, 11-pound coho; Mr. and Mrs. H. Frost, nine grise; Walter Thickett, nine grise; Mr. and Mrs. Wadell, eight grise; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Ray, three springs around 6 pounds; E. Jackson, five grise; G. Applewhite, 10-pound coho, 10-pound spring; Cliff Haglin, 14-pound coho, three springs, three grise.

Golf... Here's How

By SAM SNEAD
Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

For a normal, level putt, bring the blade back slowly, keeping it low and squarely across the direction line. Then, with wrists fairly firm, swing slowly, smoothly, back to the ball, striking it when your putter has reached the bottom of the rather flat arc of the putt. And follow through as pictured.

I am sure it helped my putting and I believe it will yours. Study the line you want the ball to follow to the hole. Then, as you stroke the ball, concentrate on having the ball follow that line for the first three or four inches. If you do that you'll find you're using fewer putts. Keep your eyes directly above the ball. Have your knees slightly flexed, but not stiff. And learn to relax. If you tighten up on a putt, the rigid stroke that results will almost certainly put the ball off-line. Stay comfortably loose and relaxed.

Starr Prefers Lewiston For Tacoma Franchise

CALGARY, Sept. 27 (CP)—In the words of William Starr, owner of San Diego Padres of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, Lewiston, Idaho, is a fine place indeed, a city where the people are baseball conscious and, as a matter of fact, a place where people have nothing else to do in the summer but attend baseball games.

Starr, who also owns Tacoma of the Western International League, made a brief stopover in Calgary Wednesday before flying back to Seattle.

His visit to the foothills city was made with the intention of selling his Tacoma franchise to Calgary interests, but Starr appeared sold on Lewiston.

He liked Calgary fine—except the weather—agreed that it had possibilities in the baseball world, had drawing power, enough money to put into such a venture and all that, but still the talk seemed to travel back to Lewiston where, Starr said, there were only 15,000 to 20,000 people, but still enough people residing in the immediate area to make a go of it in the Class B Western League.

Sam Timmins and Gordon McFarlane, representing local interests, agreed that going into such a league would be a boost for the city and would provide baseball fans with adequate entertainment, adding that there was no doubt the deal would be a financial success.

In any event, Starr flew to Seattle Wednesday night and said a decision would be reached in a few days, probably Monday.

Braving battered shins and chilly breezes, girls from five city high schools yesterday began play in the Inter-High School Grass Hockey League in the race for the cherished May Tully Shield.

NO. 244—NINETY-THIRD YEAR

Coils Guaranteed For Just One Year

The troublesome arena ammonia coils were only guaranteed for a year, arena commission chairman Carl Pendray said last night.

The coils were installed about 2 1/2 years ago.

Last Friday the first in a series of leaks in the coils left the commission with a major repair job on its hands, with the opening of the season almost two weeks away.

Cause of the leaks has been established as corrosion in the coils of the ammonia gas.

City municipal superintendent Norman Forster has been ordered to have the coils replaced by the city.

Mr. Forster said a complete inspection of the coils was not made until last night.

The coils were designed and built by the Canadian Ice Machine Company.

Says George Ran For Other Parties

By LAWRIE JOSLIN

Independent candidate Cmdr. A. C. Wurtele told an audience last night in the Boilerworks' Hall that there was going to be no mud-slinging in his Esquimalt by-election campaign.

Hard on the heels of this was a speech by Wurtele's chief backer, Coalition member Mrs. Tilly Robinson, referred to as "the woman of many parts."

She declared that he stood as a Reconstruction Party candidate Oct. 11, 1945, polling 500 votes; and as a Social Credit League candidate June 1, 1947, polling 400 votes.

"If he feels that he is progressing by now standing for Coalition, he should be a Coalition candidate," she said. "That's up to you on Monday."

Robinson said she was referring to the largest life or death struggle for the Coalition, she added.

"I would not be on a horse with Wurtele," she said. "I would be on a horse with Robinson."

Not Saddle Sore, But...

After 4,000 miles in the saddle, lunch off the mantelpiece seemed appropriate for Phyllis Elwell and Anne Wilson. The two girls, however, claimed they weren't really "saddle sore." Still in "riding habit," Phyllis and Anne had a well-balanced lunch after seven weeks on westerns and horses. Three horses, "Bonches," "Monty," and "Pinto," manhandled contentedly outside in brand-new quarters. (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

Beauty and You

By MARION MATTHEWS

Beauty is a word that has many meanings. It can mean the beauty of a landscape, the beauty of a person, or the beauty of a thing. In this article, we will discuss the beauty of a person and how it can be maintained and improved.

One of the most important aspects of beauty is skin care. The skin is the largest organ of the body and it is the first line of defense against the elements. It is important to keep the skin clean and healthy by using a good skin care routine.

Another important aspect of beauty is hair care. The hair is one of the most noticeable features of a person and it can make a big difference in how they are perceived. It is important to keep the hair clean and styled in a way that suits the person's face and personality.

Finally, it is important to remember that beauty is not just about appearance. It is also about the inner qualities of a person, such as their personality, their intelligence, and their kindness. These qualities are what truly make a person beautiful.

Should persons of different faiths marry?

Why is intermarriage between Catholics and Protestants so rare? This is a question that has been asked for many years. The answer is not simple, but it is one that is worth considering.

One of the reasons why intermarriage is rare is because of the differences in religious beliefs between the two faiths. Catholics believe in the sacrament of marriage, while Protestants believe in a more symbolic view of the ceremony.

Another reason why intermarriage is rare is because of the social pressures that are placed on couples who choose to marry across religious lines. They may face disapproval from their families and friends, and they may have to deal with the challenges of raising children in a mixed-faith household.
